ALEX. GAZETTE & VIRGINIA ADVERTISER
(FOR THE COUNTRY.)
Published regularly on TUESDAYS, THURSDAYS and SATURDAYS, at FIVE DOLLARS PER ANNUM, payable in advance.

A WILD WOMAN.—As Mr. Roda Fewell and a number of other gentlemen were hunting in the big woods near Bland's Ford bridge on Tuesday last, they discovered smoke arising from a thick pine grove a few hundred yards distant, and supposing it to proceed from the house of other hunters, they approached the spot. Imagine their feelings when they were within a few rods of the place they discovered a female almost nude! Seated near the fire, engaged in picking a large bird preparatory to cooking it. The hunters, amazed at such a sight, involuntarily stopped. A consultation in suppressed whispers and they concluded to surround the weeping beauty, for it is said she was weeping; and was often seen to wipe the tears with her long waving black hair. Each hunter was stealthily creeping to a position marked out for him, when one of them happened to strike his gun against the body of a small pine which caused the woman to look up, and seeing her situation and surroundings let her intended dinner drop and grasping a bow and arrows that lay near her side bounded away with the swiftness of a deer. The hunters were transfixed as it were, and for some moments not a word was spoken by either. They represent the woman as being about thirty and possessing great beauty of face and form. She wore an undressed bear skin about her loins which constituted her only covering. No one has been able to give any clue to her history as yet, but there is no doubt she is the companion of the wild man that was seen a few days ago not far from Alexandria by a number of hunters, an account of which appeared in the Alexandria Gazette. Her weeping was no doubt caused by the absence of her companion. It is supposed these two children of the forest have been frightened from one of the chains of the mountains east of the Ohio river by the approach of the Washington and Ohio railroad. Great efforts are being made to capture her, and it is hoped her companion will be captured also.—Manassas Gazette.

PRINCE WILLIAM COURT.—The County Court met on Monday and adjourned on Tuesday. His honor, Aylett Nicol, presiding, George W. Larkin, esq., Commonwealth's Attorney. The county officers lately elected, qualified to their respective positions. The will of the late Dr. Little C. Osmond was admitted to probate. In the case of Plunker and wife, indicted for grand larceny, counsel for accused moved the court to bail them, which motion was refused, except for the woman, who was bailed in the sum of $100, her brother and Mr. R. C. Weir becoming her bondsmen. In the case of Lang Lewis, counsel stated that two grand jury terms of the court having passed they moved the court to discharge the prisoner, which motion the Commonwealth's Attorney resisted, stating that the prosecuting witness had been paid to stay away. The court ordered an attachment to be issued against the witness which was placed in the hands of one of the deputy sheriffs. Mr. C. E. Butler, who brought the witness into court on Tuesday morning. This witness testified that the brothers of Lang Lewis, the prisoner, had paid him $6 to stay away, he showing the money they had paid him. Both of their cases go to the Circuit Court to be tried.—Manassas Gazette.

BISHOP CUMMINS INTERVIEWED.—In a conversation with a reporter in New York on the subject of his action and the probable future of the new ecclesiastical organization, Bishop Cummins stated that his congregation in that city would not be organized before Christmas or the first Sunday in January, owing to the want of copies of the Prayer Book of 1783. In response to a question asking the reason for instituting his reform movement, the bishop replied that he was obliged to sanction by his official presence ceremonies he deemed intrusive of error, and to remain in a communion whose practice and worship he condemned did not to him seem honest. He did not think the deviations of ritualism could be corrected within the church. In regard to the prospects of the "Reformed Episcopal Church" the Bishop felt sanguine, stating that there were many Presbyterians in sympathy with the movement, and that several of the Episcopal clergy of Philadelphia who had signed the circular condemnatory of his course had expressed regret for their act.

A CHILD SMOTHERED TO DEATH.—On Wednesday night of last week a wedding took place at the residence of Mrs. Jane Davis, not far from Buckingham C. H. Amongst the guests were Mr. Wm. Carter, a nephew of Mrs. Jane Davis, who was accompanied by his wife and her infant child. Upon arriving at the house Mrs. Carter laid her child, which was asleep, on a bed and spread her shawl over it. Other guests came also, and not observing the child threw their shawls carelessly on the bed, and when the mother went to look after it some time after her arrival she found it dead, having been literally smothered to death by the shawls which had been thrown upon it. This sad accident changed a scene of gaiety into one of mourning, and our informant, who was present, says he has never in the course of a long life witnessed anything like the agony of the mother as she clasped her dead child in her arms, and of the sympathizing friends who gathered around her when the heart-rending accident became known to them.—Lynchburg News.

A FAMILY SCALPED.—The Dallas (Texas) Herald tells the following lively story: A whole family was suddenly made bald-headed the other night in this city by their hair catching fire from a candle. The father had brought home a curious toy which was taken to the table for a closer examination of its character, and all leaning over to inspect it, the hair of the mother ignited and with electric suddenness communicated with the hair of the others. In less time than it takes to write it, a family of six were made bald headed by fire, and with the damages that fire did on the outside of their heads, it was much better than having fire on the inside of their heads.

ADMITTED TO THE BAR.—Gen. L. T. Wigfall, formerly United States Senator from Texas, and late commanding in the Confederate army, applied yesterday to be admitted to practice as an attorney in the Baltimore City Court. The oath, including "I will bear true allegiance to the United States, and that I will support, protect and defend the Constitution, laws and Government thereof as the supreme law of the land, any law or ordinance of this or any State to the contrary notwithstanding," was presented to him. He considered it a little hard, but took it and had his name enrolled on the list of attorneys.—Baltimore American.

This is to Certify, That I have this day sold unto Messrs. Janney & Co., of Alexandria, Va., the sole right to prepare and sell the Mattin Ague Mixture, according to the genuine recipe as formerly owned by me.

ROBERT H. BIGGER.

Alexandria, Va., August 15, 1873.
The very many instances which came under my personal observation while acting as General Agents for the sale of Mattin Ague Mixture, in which it effected a cure when all other remedies had failed, induced us to purchase the recipe and proprietorship of the Medicine, and enables us confidently to recommend it to our patrons and the public generally, as a most reliable and valuable preparation.
